Safety Advisory Service

There are times when even the most experienced safety professional needs support.

The Safety Advisory Service provides a one-stop shop for impartial advice on health, safety and environmental issues that will help you identify the best solution to your problems.

A helping hand in health and safety

From factories to offices, construction sites to local authorities, health and safety in the workplace is more than just a legal requirement. It's good business sense. A safer, healthier workforce leads to higher morale and can lead to improved productivity and reduced risk.

Our aim is to provide sound and practical advice on all areas of health and safety throughout the UK.

What we offer

You can choose a single appointment, four quarterly visits, or visits as and when required. Our qualified Safety Advisors work through the key elements your organisation needs to cover in order to comply with health and safety standards.

We offer guidance in areas such as COSHH, risk assessment and formulating a safety policy, which will prove to be the building blocks of a better business. By raising safety awareness in your organisation, you'll avoid injuries and ill health and help to reduce absenteeism.

Flexibility is our key strength

The British Safety Council's advisors have expertise and experience in a variety of sectors including:

- Factories
- Offices
- Transport
- Hospitals
- Hotels
- Schools and colleges
- Construction sites
- Utilities
- Local authorities
- Sports grounds

The advisory service is flexible and can cover specific areas of health and safety, or, if required, can help build a complete health and safety management system.
