

Mike Robinson
Chief Executive
British Safety Council

Mike was appointed as Chief Executive of the British Safety Council with effect from 1 September 2015.

Prior to this Mike was a co-founder of Global Navigation Solutions, the worlds' leading provider of paper and digital navigation products and services to commercial shipping.

Previously, Mike held the post of Chief Executive of the United Kingdom Hydrographic Office (an Executive Agency and Trading Fund of the Ministry of Defence) where, over five years, he grew the business substantially, increasing profits and positioning the organisation to respond to increasing competition.

Before moving into the maritime services sector, Mike had a successful 15 years career in Financial Services, building HBOS's European Financial Services business and sitting on the Boards' of HBOS Europe & North America and the Clerical Medical Investment Group.

Mike qualified as a Chartered Accountant with Price Waterhouse and spent a number of years at the start of his career in Audit and Consultancy.
