

Entry Level

Entry Level Award in Workplace Hazard Awareness

This qualification is aimed at young people and raises awareness of important health and safety issues.

Who needs this qualification?

All 14-19 year olds about to embark on work experience or their first job.

Why is this qualification important?

A young worker is 50% more likely to have an accident than an older worker. There have been cases of young people being killed during their first week at work.

Qualification content

- Health and safety hazards
- How hazards may cause harm
- How employers can keep people healthy and safe
- How employees can keep themselves and others healthy and safe
- Health and safety signs and their meanings
- Personal protective equipment and its use
- The benefits of good health and safety at work
- The consequences of poor health and safety at work.

Assessment

- Assessment is via a simple portfolio of evidence which is marked by the centre and externally moderated
- Structured evidence sheets are provided to help learners.

How it works

- Centres register their learners
- Centres deliver the learning (recommended three–four hours)
- Learners complete the assessment
- Centres mark the work
- Centres submit a sample for moderation
- The work is externally moderated
- Results and certificates are issued.

At a glance

- 3-4 hour programme
- Portfolio of evidence
- Regulated by Ofqual (500/9912/7).

It was good to see so many of our students engaged and enthusiastic. The qualification has given us a chance to ensure that all of our students receive some high quality information and advice before embarking on work experience

Amanda Knight
Assistant Head Teacher
Crofton School

