

Steve Perkins
Executive Coach and Leadership Consultant
Steve Perkins Associates
Limited

Steve is a Chartered Director and Fellow of the Institute of Directors, with 20 years of management and executive experience in a range of organisations from corporate to charity and plc to SME. He has served in CEO, Executive and Non-Executive Director roles. He is also a Fellow of the Institute of Physics.

His experience combines his three passions; business, people and science. After graduating Steve worked in aeroacoustics research for Rolls-Royce plc, later moving onto the business side to lead improvement initiatives and IT transformation.

His second career was spent in the third sector in a senior pastoral role and as the Operations Director and Trustee of a large regional faith-based charity. He still volunteers as a charity trustee today.

In 2009 Steve became the Chief Executive of BOHS, a national professional and awarding body for scientists and leaders in occupational health and safety. During a nine year tenure he led the transformation of BOHS into a growing national and international leader in its field. He secured a Royal Charter in record time, grew the membership, created a profitable business and launched successful national health risk campaigns in the construction and manufacturing sectors.

In 2018 he launched Steve Perkins Associates Limited, to provide effective executive coaching and consultancy to organisational leaders and their teams. He now works with organisational leaders in the UK and around the world in the field of occupational safety, health and well-being.
